The Letters that Passed Between Minister Lowell and Secretary Frelinghuysen Regarding the Irish Crimes Act.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.

WASHINGTON, March [illegible].—[illegible] dep[illegible] transmit [illegible] the last annual message [illegible] ready for publication [illegible] office and will make a complete [illegible] 600 pages. Nearly all the [illegible] letters and extracts [illegible] of any general importance have been previously printed by the [illegible] current newspaper publication. Among those which have not been printed [illegible] of present interest are two letters written by Minister Lowell and Secretary Frelinghuysen [illegible] to the Irish prevention of crimes act. They appear in the volume as follows:

LOWELL TO FRELINGHUYSEN.

LEGATION OF THE UNITED STATES,
LONDON, July 14, 1882.

I have the honor to inclose two copies of the crime (Ireland) act which has just received royal sanction. It is a revival of the alien act. Questions are likely to arise under it which will need to be treated with extreme delicacy and discretion. It will be rather to the personal application of the act than to its principle that the objection will be made and I should be glad to be armed beforehand with your opinion. J. R. LOWELL.

FRELINGHUYSEN TO LOWELL.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
WASHINGTON, Dec. 22, 1882.

Sir—I have instructions of 10th of August last to acknowledge the receipt of your dispatch of 14th July in relation to the prevention of crime (Ireland) act recently passed by the British parliament. The careful attention which you evidently have given the subject and your just comments on the policy that could have dictated so extraordinary a measure relieve me from the necessity of giving you any thing more than a general direction as to your future conduct in connection with cases affecting American citizens that may possibly come before you. Nevertheless I deem it proper in the interests of our citizens and in compliance with your own expressed desire to that effect to put you in possession of the general

VIEWS OF THE PRESIDENT

On this recent act of the British parliament, an act which he believes may seriously affect a large number of citizens of this republic. It is, as you justly observe, a revival of the alien act. A part of the crimes act more directly concerns us and it is this fear of the measure which has caused the president to feel anxiety as to its possible effect on the business and social relations of American citizens, particularly those of Irish birth. Many Irish American citizens have parents, brothers and sisters residing in Ireland and whenever they learn of their destitution as the most effective mode of relief they send a member of the family to Ireland with means and aid for them. The possibility that persons in pursuit of their lawful business enterprises or on their

MISSION OF BENEVOLENCE

Should come under the operation of the proceedings contemplated by the provisions of the new law is much to be deprecated. The opportunities for the annoyance which the act affords for the gratification of private enmity, as you justly remark, increases the grounds of apprehension, and when to this is added the zeal of officials it is hardly to be expected that Irish Americans, however innocent they might be in act and intention, should consider their person or property safe in that country. Their private although temporary abode may be forcibly visited by night or day, their papers and valuables may be taken from them and subjected to search and they may be ordered out of the country at the will of the executive with the

STIGMA OF GUILT

Upon them and without having had an opportunity for hearing or trial. The president moreover could not contemplate the enforcement of this measure upon mere suspicion against American citizens without fears of its having an unhappy influence on the good wishes which now exist between two great nations of common origin and common language. I need scarcely say that this government has no sympathy with the motives or methods of a certain class of indiscreet individuals insignificant in this country whose ill directed zeal can neither serve the cause of Ireland nor reflect credit upon the country of their adoption, but law abiding American citizens of Irish birth should not be exposed to suffer on their account.

The Dukes Murder Trial.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 12.—F. C. Breckenridge was on the witness stand this morning in the Dukes murder case. The point of his testimony was that he was not shot at by Dukes. He was standing with his right arm resting on the mantle and his left arm hanging by his side. He was exhausted and breathing heavily from the struggle with Dukes which was just over and was making no movement of any kind. Jas. T. Feather testified this afternoon that after Dukes and Nutt had been separated in the farmer's room he pushed Dukes into one corner, when Dukes said: "He came in here to whip me and I'll shoot him." Feather replied: "He can't whip you now." Dukes drew his revolver and fired across the room at Nutt, killing him. Nutt was making no effort to draw a weapon. William Peck, a clerk in a hardware store, testified that on the day preceding the Sunday when the shooting was done he had sold Dukes a 32 calibre Smith & Wesson double acting revolver. Dukes selected it with great care from a number of others, saying he wanted one that was sure. A couple of customers happened to drop into the store at the time, when Dukes concealed himself, saying that he did not want everybody to know his business.

A Murderer Arrested.

BOSTON, March 12.—Patrick Levy, a passenger on the steamer Samaria, was arrested on the arrival of the steamer to-day on a charge of killing Patrick Hurley, a farmer in Mullinger, Ireland. Immediately after leaving Queenstown Levy informed the officer of the Samaria that he committed the deed two years ago, saying that Hurley hired a farm over the head of an evicted tenant and he was induced by the payment of 20 pounds by whom he would not state to kill him. Levy says he never was suspected of the murder and left Ireland to seek employment here. His destination was 24 East 21st street, New York, where [illegible] Mrs. Patrick Spaulding resides. Levy now denies the 20 pound story and says that in a drunken quarrel he committed the deed. The British consul advised letting the man proceed to his destination in New York and be kept under surveillance until advices from England are received.

The Embezzling Teller.

ST. LOUIS, March 12.—Sentence of Ohio Owen, the defaulting teller of the Third National bank, was again postponed this morning by the United States court until Saturday next, as further time is required to take Owen's deposition in the two suits pending against his bondsmen. Owen has been giving testimony almost daily but the utmost secrecy has been preserved. It has leaked out however that his evidence is very unsatisfactory and he has only accounted for a little over $40,000 of the $[illegible] which he embezzled. The Judge stated that he would not read Owen's testimony as that would influence him in passing sentence.

General Grant Somewhat Sore Over the Failure of His Pet Project, the Mexican Treaty

The Indians Who Assisted the Crew of the Ill Fated Rodgers to be Suitably Rewarded.

Personal Gossip Concerning the Health and Movements of Many Noted Men.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.

WASHINGTON, March [illegible].—A Washington dispatch to a New York paper yesterday announced that efforts were making in Washington to have an extra session of the senate called to consider the Mexican treaty and intimated that the president might be induced at an early day to summon a session of the senate for that purpose. [illegible] the report [illegible] Grant. He [illegible] efforts making to obtain an extra session and did not believe any extra session of the senate would be called. Grant's attention was directed to the contrast represented between the hasty passage of the Madagascar treaty and the opposition and delay which the Mexican treaty encountered. He replied that he had nothing to say as to the causes which may have led to such summary action in the case of the Madagascar treaty, but he understood the failure of the senate to pass the Mexican treaty at the last session was due to the opposition of the Louisiana senators, who regarded the clauses in the treaty relating to sugar as detrimental to the interests of 49 firms engaged in the manufacture of sugar. These 49 firms, it may be proper to add, receive a yearly bounty from the people of $5,17[illegible] (the 50,000,000 consumers paying them $155,489,918 for that which can be bought in open market for $100,[illegible]). Their earnings in 1880 were over 30 per cent upon their capital and they paid less than $1,000,000 in wages.

Sending out Copies of the New Tariff Law.

WASHINGTON, March 1[illegible].—The treasury department to-day mailed copies of the new tariff to all collectors of customs together with instructions that sections seven and nine of the act take effect at once and apply to all goods in bonded warehouses as well as goods imported after the date of the passage of the act. Section seven repeals the duties heretofore added in ascertaining dutiable value of merchandise for the purpose of assessment of duties. This action will cause a considerable reduction in the amount of duty collected, which reduction is estimated by some at five per cent of the entire amount collected. Section nine of the tariff act changes the manner of ascertaining the nature of merchandise consigned by manufacturers in foreign countries to agents in the United States and for which there is no foreign market value, for the reason that the goods are especially manufactured for sale in the United States. The law authorizes appraising officers to ascertain the cost and value of the material comprising such merchandise at the time and place of manufacture, together with the expense of manufacturing, preparing and putting up merchandise for shipment, and makes the value so ascertained the basis for assessment of duties. Sections 2907 and 2908 and section 148 of the act to amend the customs and revenue laws repeals the moieties rule, approved June 22d, 1874.

Changes in the Engineer Corps.

The following changes in the stations and duties of the officers of the corps of engineers have been ordered: Major Barlow will relieve Lieut. Col. Henry M. Robert of his duty in connection with the improvements on Lake Superior, making his station at Milwaukee. Captain H. Q[illegible] will be relieved of duty by the last named officer and will relieve Capt. F. Maguire of his duties in connection with the improvement of the Yellowstone and Missouri rivers, taking his station at St. Paul. Captain Dan. [illegible] Wood will be relieved by the last named officer and will relieve Major David P. Heap, taking his station at Grand Haven, Michigan. Captain Albert H. Payson will be relieved from duty under the [illegible] orders of Chas. B. Stewart and of the board of engineers for the Pacific coast.

Charges against Architect Hill.

Charges against Supervising Architect Hill have been made by Representative Murch of Maine. They cover over twenty pages of legal cap paper written with a type writer. Before engrossing Murch read the charges which he subsequently filed with Secretary Folger to a number of persons about the capitol. The gravamen is that the system of paying for building [illegible] adopted by the supervising architect is extravagant. Murch is understood [illegible] in an unfinished shape. Supervising Architect Hill says it is J. G. Mills who is said to be pressing the charges against him (Hill) and not A. G. Mills, formerly chief clerk of the architect's office, as heretofore published.

Indians to be Rewarded.

Lieutenant Robert M. Berry, who commanded the ill fated relief steamer Rodgers on her cruise to the Arctic, was ordered here by Secretary Chandler a few days ago from New York, where he is attached to the school ship St. Mary's. He is here for the purpose of advising in the selection of the best articles to be sent to the Tchuckchi Indians in the vicinity of St. Lawrence bay as a reward for their assistance to the crew of the Rodgers. The list has been completed and the articles will be sent on the revenue steamer Corwin, which will sail from San Francisco for Alaska the latter part of April or first of May. Ensign Leo M. Storey will be ordered to take charge of the goods, and will take passage in the Corwin.

Claims Damages for False Imprisonment.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The chief of the secret service division made a report to the secretary of the treasury to-day in regard to the case of Albert Mason, the notorious counterfeiter recently released from prison, where he had served the greater part of a term of twelve years, and who has made claim against the government for $50,000 for false imprisonment. He made the claim as a British subject through the British minister. The claim was referred by the secretary of state to the treasury department. The chief of the secret service division makes a strong argument against allowing the claim, which [illegible] is based upon the entire misrepresentation of fact without justice or [illegible].

The contractor and the amount of pay was unknown to him, as that knowledge was not within his province. Witness described the condition of the country at the time the route was established and its growth up to the present time.

At the conclusion of his testimony the introduction of official papers was resumed. The court showed much annoyance at the attempt on the part of the defense to argue up the admissibility of a certain class of papers after the court had ruled them out, and peremptorily ordered Henkle to be seated. SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—Capt. Tetley, an English gentleman who has been visiting the coast in the interest of a number of English capitalists and who lately returned from a trip to Arizona, left this afternoon for Europe. In conversation with an OREGONIAN correspondent he stated that he had [illegible] a visit to Oregon and Washington territory [illegible] the proposed visit to the northwest. The letter received by him stated briefly that arrangements have been entered into for the purchase of lands in the neighborhood of Walla Walla and for further investments in Oregon timber lands. It is also stated that it is highly probable that a number of gentlemen would visit the coast during the coming summer with a view to making

PERSONAL OBSERVATION

Of California and northwestern lands. In answer to a question as to the reason for seeking investments at such a distance from home the captain answered that a very favorable opinion is entertained abroad of the resources of the far west, and a disposition manifests to obtain reliable information of its investment opportunities. He is firmly convinced that in a comparatively short time foreign capital will find its way into northern channels, and ultimately become closely identified with the development of its resources. The completion of the Northern Pacific railroad is closely watched by [illegible] capital as the keynote of the general prosperity of the northern country.

San Francisco's Water War.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—A meeting of the supervisors this evening was characterized by considerable excitement and feeling over the reduction of the rates charged by the Spring Valley Co. for the supply of water. During the progress of the debate as to what would be an equitable reduction, Supervisor [illegible] intimated strongly that he had been offered fifty thousand dollars to influence his vote on the final consideration of the question. The announcement produced a decided sensation, which was augmented in the course of the remarks by Supervisor [illegible], who stated that his wife had been approached and informed that it was to his interest to vote against the proposed reduction, and that a consideration would be offered for his so doing. A prolonged debate ensued, and ultimately the order which was presented by Supervisor Shirley some weeks ago was adopted as the basis of a compromise and finally passed. The order contemplates a reduction of [illegible] per cent in existing rates.

Solar Heat Company.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—The Solar Heat company [illegible] articles of incorporation to-day, its object being to purchase patents for utilizing solar heat for industrial purposes, such as pumping water for irrigation, propelling all kinds of machinery, furnishing steam and hot water for use in canneries, drying fruit, etc. The company has machinery in process of construction, the principal piece of which consists of a large cylindrical reflector in combination with a heat receiver and boiler. It is claimed that occasional clouds have no effect upon the apparatus and that it can be extensively used in irrigating and reclaiming lands.

FAIR OF NEVADA.

The Great Mining King Afflicted with Washington Malaria but well Enough to Talk to a Reporter.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.

CHICAGO, March [illegible].—Jas. C. Fair [illegible] is here [illegible] "I always enjoy [illegible] I have been [illegible] for some time. I don't know why the national capital breeds malaria [illegible] the fact that the sewers there are dry in the flats and malaria is wafted over the city as a natural consequence. It ought not to be so in winter, yet if you step into the senate chamber or the house on a high session you will see half the members of each body about 11 o'clock take a liver grain powder of quinine from their pockets and empty them on their respective tongues. The malaria is the only drawback to Washington. That reminds me that Boss Shepherd, who was exercised almost by a majority of the people of Washington, and who left it and went to Mexico, is now the subject of favorable comment by the people who abused him. [illegible] Shepherd is making money in Mexican mines and railroads. I hope this is true."

"Senator, what is your opinion of mining properties in Mexico?"

"Oh, I have no doubt that Mexico is rich in precious minerals. There are good mines there. The trouble is that capital is very chary in putting money into this business, because there is a great doubt about Mexico. There the laws may be all overturned at any time. Mexican people are unstable, panicky and revolutionary. I don't say that there is any danger but there might be. The uncertainty of a man's power to hold his land after he has bought and developed it keeps capital away."

"We don't hear much nowadays of suddenly acquired wealth from lucky finds in Nevada and other mining regions in the United States. Why is it so?"

"I can't say. There is just as good an opportunity now as ever for successful discoveries. Perhaps it is the fault of the men who ask."

"Your firm is still Flood, Mackey & Fair?"

"Yes. Mackey is in Europe. My health being so bad we have not been working our mines as thoroughly as formerly, but our mines are working satisfactorily to us."

"Are you not afraid that the accumulation of silver in the hands of the government will bring about its demonetization?"

"Not at all. There is no danger of silver being demonetized in the United States. Germany is now trying to get back to a silver basis as fast as she can. Supposing the government has to hire and build vaults to hold it, floating silver certificates can represent it all, and they are just as good as money."

"How is the Sutro tunnel working?"

"Sutro is in Germany. He made a great deal of money out of his scheme. He made money while he was building it. He used to talk considerable during that time about the great mines exposing him and trying to get his unfinished work, but you see that was all talk. He used to do this in order to get liberal supplies of money from his backers in the east. Yes, Sutro has got all he wants and is now enjoying himself in Germany. The Sutro tunnel is a hole in the ground, but it benefits us. We save pumping water to the top of the shafts in the Comstock mine, and pay two dollars a ton royalty on the ore taken out."

"How do you like the presiding officer of the senate?"

"Senator Edmunds is a gentleman—an able man. No better could be put in the chair he now occupies. He is too great to be even president of the United States. He is a giant. There are two or three other giants in the presidential field, and they all fight one another. They do not want to see one a pigmy in the White house. They would rather a pigmy would succeed than a giant become president."

"What's your opinion of the work of the last session?"

"We did a good deal of business—more than many previous congresses. We looked after the government's interests and relieved the people of some burdens in the shape of taxation. I think the tariff legislation was wholly in the interest of New England protectionists, and they had everything their own way."

Senator Fair will not go directly home but will remain a while with his sister in law.

TUESDAY MORNING, MARCH 13, 1883.

PRESERVING OUR TIMBER.

We have had many destructive forest fires, and are likely to have many more. Indeed it may be feared that we have seen only the beginning of the destruction of our fine bodies of timber by fire. Every year increases the chances of multiplied conflagrations. Loggers are extending their operations throughout forests. Settlers are widening their clearings. Large areas become covered with fir and cedar slashings which when dried, burn almost like gunpowder. The undergrowth goes too, and chips, moss and a vast variety of combustible material add fuel to the flame. When these fires kindle and rise to extreme fierceness they spread over a whole forest, enveloping it all in their fiery glow, and devouring great living trees as brushwood or stubble. The timber cut from our forests is as nothing in quantity compared with that hitherto destroyed by fire; and unless increasing caution be exercised by settlers, loggers, hunters and campers these fires will spread more and more, and the breath of conflagration will sweep away that which would be worth millions of money within a very few years.

The rapid disappearance of forests in other parts of our country, due largely to fire, gave rise to discussion of methods of forest preservation. The St. Paul Press says: "From the very urgency of the national necessities, present and future, the cause of forestry has received a new impetus, and universal interest is awakened by discussions which a few years ago would have been considered too dull and too little related to practical affairs to obtain an audience. No one will now deny that the adoption of a scientific system for the preservation of forests that have so far escaped, and the creation of others by a judicious plan of tree culture is intimately connected with the future prosperity of this country and the satisfaction of the needs of the whole world."

But it is difficult to hit upon a plan that promises to be effective. One suggestion is that congress shall "turn over to each state the woodlands within its limits which may yet remain unravaged, on condition that the state in return shall put in operation a system of scientific forestry for the preservation of the timber. It would be required to enact laws in accordance with the accepted principles of forestry, regulating the cut of timber in such a way that a new growth would be ready to supply the place of the old as fast as it was removed. That this is not in the least impracticable is shown by the experience of European governments, which not only maintain unimpaired immense tracts of forest land as a state measure, but secure a handsome revenue from the proceeds."

This suggestion reads well enough, but it may be doubted whether it or any other looking to the object proposed will be adopted. In such matters our people have not much foresight. Nature's great abundance they have always enjoyed, and the suggestion that that abundance will in time be exhausted does not strike them with much force. Besides, every man consoles himself with the reflection that the timber will last through his time. Again, our legislative bodies are slow to act, unless personal interest can be brought to bear as an influence; and what is the business of all is the business of no one in particular. A good many writers recently have devoted time and labor to this subject, but in all probability they will not succeed in awakening a lively and practical interest in it till the forests are virtually no more.

A FEW WORDS MORE.

Why is any license required for the sale of intoxicating liquors? This city does not require the butcher, the baker, the grocer, to pay a yearly license of $800, or $200, or any other sum. Why is the liquor dealer required to pay? Simply because he is doing a business which the community finds it necessary, for its own peace and safety, to tax and restrict. Liquor selling is regarded by the public and marked by law as a business dangerous to society, and is only tolerated under conditions which compel those who engage in it to pay, as no other business pays, for the right to exist. This, plainly, is the status of the liquor business. The law discriminates against it. It says that no one shall engage in the business until he has first given a bond to keep an orderly place and paid a tax which is imposed on no other business whatever. The object of these regulations is two-fold, viz.: first, to place a business which all experience proves to be full of danger to society under proper restrictions; and second, to tax it to pay some part of the expense of government of which it is directly or indirectly the cause.

What THE OREGONIAN advocates is simply a proper degree of limitation or restriction. It has never preached a crusade against saloons or saloon keepers. To do this, it has always said, is to begin at the wrong end to work to no purpose. Liquors are sold to supply a demand. To diminish this demand is to do the most effective, and the only really effective, temperance work. So long as the demand exists it will be supplied, law or no law. The selling therefore can never be suppressed by war on the seller. But regulations may be provided which will tend to secure orderly conduct of the business, and which will make it pay out of its large profits a proper contribution to meet the expenses of which it is the cause. Few cities like Portland make license fees so low as those required here. There is a wide-spread opinion that some increase is proper. But there is reason for grave doubt whether the new ordinance will produce any permanently useful result. It could be opposed with far less effect if the sum were $400, which would be double that hitherto required. And if the bond regulation were maintained and enforced, as it easily could be, the restriction would be of the most salutary kind.

The question is one very difficult to deal with. It is complicated with personal opinions and with pecuniary interests. And the range of opinions is as wide as the range of interests. On one hand there is a demand for liquors which will not allow the supply to be shut off; and on the other hand there is a body of opinion which insists that no supply shall be tolerated. Again, it is to the interest of the dealer not only to keep the supply up to the demand, but to anticipate the demand and force it; and wholesale dealers therefore very often supply the liquors for opening saloons in localities where already there are too many. Were no tax required it would be easier to multiply them; and hence the wholesale dealer who sets up saloons to make a market for his liquors naturally wants no obstacles in his way. The property owner, too, who may be and often is a strictly temperance man, and possibly a church member, frequently finds that he can get more rent from the liquor seller than any other person, and he therefore joins those who oppose measures of restriction and regulation. But in every case there is a mean, a balance, of opinions and interests. The difficulty in dealing with this subject is to know where to find it.

The revenue marine service is flinging charges at the naval officers of smuggling to which the navy department replies that the marine service doesn't need to put on Pharisaical airs, as it is no better than it should be. It is quite probable that both parties to the controversy are telling some frozen truth, but honest people will be likely to consider that a very weak defense which relies for its justification solely on the sins of somebody else. If officers of either department have been guilty of abusing their privileges by smuggling they should be exposed and punished, just as anybody else would be. The government cannot afford to let its own employes set the example of breaking the laws.

A NEW ROAD LAW.

The roads of California while better than ours are still very bad. The old road system has failed utterly there as it has here and in fact everywhere else. Road supervisors who are not paid will not do their work properly, and individuals, however public spirited and liberal they may be in larger matters, always shirk road work if possible. The California legislature has passed a new road law designed to improve the roads of the state, even if the cost be much greater than under the old system. The new law places the power to regulate public highways, roads, streets, alleys, courts, places, trails and bridges primarily in the boards of supervisors. These boards are required to divide their counties into road districts, corresponding to supervisors' districts, within which they are made ex officio road commissioners, and upon each supervisor devolves the duty of overseeing road matters in such district. Upon petition the board is permitted to appoint roadmasters, who hold office for two years; but it is provided that any roadmaster now in office by election shall hold until the expiration of their terms. Roadmasters are allowed $3 a day while actually employed and 15 per cent. of all road poll taxes collected. The bill authorizes supervisors annually set aside from the property road tax collected from all sources a sum not exceeding 35 per cent. of the aggregate for general county road purposes, to be known as the general road fund, from which they may pay such sums as are required for general county road purposes to keep roads in repair or assist poor districts; but it is provided that the supervisors shall have no power to create a debt exceeding the receipts for the year. Power is also conferred on the supervisors to levy a road poll tax not to exceed $3, but citizens who desire may work out the same on the roads under the direction of the roadmasters. Employers are made responsible for the road poll tax of their employes. The provisions for opening new roads are similar to those previously provided by the code, and consist in the appointment of viewers and a series of actions providing for condemnation, etc.

This law will go into effect at once, and it will not take long to show whether or not it is efficient. Oregonians will do well to keep an eye on it. The next legislature will be called upon to provide a new road system for this state and models will be needed. But we shall probably never have really good roads in winter till a perfect system of road drainage is provided. The soft, rich soil of the Willamette valley by a little rain and a little wear will be reduced to a sticky mortar, and the elevation and drainage necessary to keep them good during the winter months will be very expensive.

The city jail has come to be a refuge and home for dissolute and idle persons. Its corridor is peopled at all times with men who find it pleasanter to sit in its warmth or shade than to earn an honest living outside. A ten-days' sentence is a ten-days' rest, and it is not uncommon for a vagabond to commit a trifling offense with the purpose of serving a term in jail. A ten-days' sentence means a ten-days' rest with full allowances. It is an outrage that respectable people must pay taxes to support the vicious in idleness. It has been suggested that the city might make its prisoners earn their bread by employing them in the city park west of town. They might be kept on the ground or marched out each morning in charge of a keeper. Ten hours' hard work each day would soon take the beauty out of prison life, and no doubt serve to reduce the force of "regulars" at the jail.

Several of the Columbia river cannery men recently met at Astoria and decided to pay for fish at last year's rate—sixty cents each. It is thought that all the cannerymen except Kinney will adopt this figure, and the fishermen will doubtless accept it. Kinney's offer of ninety cents is made only for the first two months of the season when the run is light, and he, it is thought, will pay only sixty cents during the last and heaviest month of the season.

Noting Judge Deady's decision admitting Chinese actors to this country, the New York Herald says: "Here is something for the tariff protectionists to look after. The anti-Chinese statute proves to be wholly inadequate to keep out almond-eyed players. Now let the protectionists put a heavy tariff duty on them in order that our own stars and stock actors may be duly protected against these cheap Asiatic professionals."

Judge Wiggins, of San Francisco, has resigned to escape impeachment. This seems to be an off year for the Wigginses.

That Precious Baby.

MONTEREY, March 12.—The international baby was christened this evening by Monsignor Montes de Oca, receiving his father's name, Geronimo. Gen. Trevino preferred to have the christening conducted quietly, therefore the ceremony was performed in the oratory of the bishop's palace, in the presence of only a few civilians, military dignitaries, the Trevino and Ord families, Ex-President Diaz and wife, Godfather and Godmother Rubio, Doctor Lireaga, and Senoras Rubio and Lireaga. Some comment was occasioned by the unavoidable absence of General Pacheco. In the evening a brilliant ball was given by the citizens to Gen. Diaz.

THE NEBRASKA LAW.

PORTLAND, March 12.

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

Having with interest followed the controversy about the so-called high license of $500, I would like to give through your paper my own experience, which is also the experience of 500,000 people.

Previous to 1881 the liquor traffic was carried on in Nebraska as it is here to-day, it being at the option of the county commissioners or the city councils to grant license or not, and to set the amount for the same, which was generally from $50 to $100 per annum—bonds $500. The property holders and taxpayers got soon disgusted with the way the system worked and measures for relief were taken, but were twice defeated by the liquor element of the state. At last a bill brought in by a Mr. Slocum was passed after a hard fight. I, to speak of myself, was then a prominent politician, am a German by birth, and have been, and perhaps always will be, a democrat to the backbone. I had a partner who had a large saloon, although I had nothing to do with it. This is to show to my democratic brethren that a man can be an advocate of high license without being a prohibitionist. Here I will give the main features of the bill. The granting of licenses is at the option of city councils or county commissioners; the amount is not less than $500 for any place under 10,000 inhabitants; above that, $1000 per year. The applicant must be a man of good reputation and character; he must have 30 signers on his petition for license—from actual real estate holders and taxpayers in the precinct or ward where he intends to locate his business; he must give a $5000 bond to keep a respectable place; any damage done through drunken men, when originating from his premises, will be satisfied by these bonds. If he fails to keep an orderly house the granted license may be revoked and the amount paid (always $500 in full whether for one month or one year) is forfeited. Wives may notify the saloon keepers not to sell any liquors to the husband upon the above stated penalties in case of non-fulfillment of her request, and damages.

After the passage of this law indignation meetings were held everywhere to oppose it, beat it, avoid it, etc.; but there was no getting out of it, and about two-thirds of the saloons, in most cases out of ten low dens, dead falls, had to shut up, not alone on account of the $500, but the impossibility of getting the 30 signers and $5000 bonds. Before, we had hoodlums and drunken loafers on every street; now all is orderly; hardly anybody gets drunk; the police court docket is thin, the saloon keeper is respected, the wholesale dealer satisfied, and the citizens of the state would not part with that law for any consideration, especially those who first condemned it most. It is my conviction that it would work well here also.

Any one who fails to see the good of high license I would advise to see the Omaha of to-day which, formerly exactly resembled the Portland of 1883, and profit by the example. There will be more money in the school fund, more order and fewer cases in the police court.

These are the true sentiments, as I before stated, of a foreign born citizen, no temperance fanatic or prohibitionist by any means, but a true democrat, and a man who wishes well for this commonwealth.

THE PENSION ROLL.

DRAIN, March 10, 1883.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

Allow me to join you in asking that all pensioners' names be published; yes, let them be published. It is the roll of honor, the noblest the world ever saw. By all means let's have it done, and opposite each name let there be the amount that this government, so rich that it cannot spend its money, pays the men who saved it in war, and are still its surest guardians in peace let us have the procession on crutches of all who can hobble, and in the side panels of the picture. Let us have those who are dying at home or in the keeping of hospitals and poor houses. And let it be reviewed with every man bearing on his back his record as a soldier. If possible, it would be well to have the procession of carpetbaggers march directly after. Do you want to know something about the frauds? Well, Oregon's chief pension fraud is Senator James H. Slater. Think of him pointing at the procession of cripples, and in holy horror exclaiming: "These fellows will break up the government! (Report from committee on pensions against $40 increase for loss of limb.) Does Senator Slater think the people of Oregon have forgotten when he was whining because he could not get mileage from La Grande to Washington by way of Portland and San Francisco? Back salary was all right, but arrearages of pensions are terrible! Comrades, don't forget Senator J. H. Slater.

MINING NEWS.

Jacksonville Times.

The Sterling mine remains in statu quo.

Jack Layton, of Applegate, has a large force of men at work cleaning out his ditches.

Sargent and sons, who are mining on Thompson creek, Applegate precinct, have obtained excellent prospects.

Goldsworthy & Justus, of Foots creek, who have superior water privileges, are able to do considerable piping.

The weather continues discouraging to miners, who fear that they can make no run of any consequence this season.

Some of the miners have not done any work at all so far. The present season is the worst for mining ever known in southern Oregon.

Bebee & Co. have been making a cleanup at their claim near Waldo, which turned out better than Superintendent Hawkett expected.

Frank Ennis and James Hansen, accompanied by Charles Howard, surveyor, went over to Josephine county last week to look at some mining ground, which they will probably purchase. Mr. Ennis returned Tuesday.

What Need.

Cincinnati Commercial.

It cost Mr. Tabor $200,000 to be elected to the United States senate for one month. The Colorado Historical Society is asking the state for $1250 to help in the educational development of the people of the state. What's the use of $1250 worth of "educational development" in a state where money is about the sole agent in social and political advancement?

CHANGE OF FIRM.

I HAVE THIS DAY SOLD MY INTEREST IN the firm of Hachenay & Reno, wholesale and retail grocers, corner First and Taylor streets, Portland; and in retiring from business beg to thank my numerous friends and patrons for past favors, which I would beg to desire they will kindly continue to bestow on my successors, M. Reno & Co. (Signed)

Portland, 5th March, 1883. F. HACHENEY.

Having purchased the business so long conducted by Hacheney & Reno, we would beg to announce that we are resolved to sustain the high reputation which the firm has always held. We sell goods on the lowest margins, and as our business is conducted on such an extensive scale we are enabled to offer fine or goods and at lower prices than smaller dealers, the connections secured by our predecessors during the last nineteen years affording us opportunities that few dealers in our line are favored with.

CITY.

[illegible] AND BLOOMING.—The fine weather still [illegible] and all prophecies to the contrary [illegible] The oldest inhabitant has [illegible] notwithstanding. The oldest inhabitant has [illegible] recollection of such a fine March, but even he [illegible] recollection of anything [illegible] jonquils and other early flow[illegible] in the gardens around town [illegible] lilac and syringas are putting forth [illegible] are budding and to one place [illegible] cherry and apple trees were seen last [illegible] into bloom. From appearances it [illegible] as the Psalmist says, "the winter [illegible] the rains are over and gone, the flowers ap[illegible] the earth; and the time of the singing of [illegible] has come." These may not be the exact words [illegible] the Psalmist and perhaps the winter is not quite [illegible] the rains quite over, but with the hot sun [illegible] atmosphere of summer, it is hard to [illegible] rains and frosts are yet in store for us.

[illegible]—Master Chester Dolph yesterday [illegible] THE OREGONIAN office a specimen of the [illegible] Finch, or Grosbeak, which was noticed a [illegible] as being plentiful in the gardens [illegible] town. It is a pretty bird, much resembling [illegible] chaffinch, the head, tail and a greater [illegible] being black, while the breast and [illegible] a greenish yellow. No one has been able [illegible] the correct name of the bird. Mr. Waecher, [illegible] states that a number of years [illegible] ship captain brought a lot of birds of this [illegible] Australia and that they escaped from [illegible] Astoria, and have increased and multi[illegible] now scattered all over the state. TO KEEP STREETS CLEAR.

THE NEW ORDINANCE JUST PASSED AND SIGNED.

The Matter of Obstruction of Streets Transferred to the Police Department, and the Old Law made More Rigid.

At the last meeting of the city council ordinance No. 3,21, relating to the obstruction of streets was passed and it was signed the following day by the mayor. Heretofore in all matters relating to the obstruction of streets and sidewalks the superintendent of streets has been the only officer empowered to enforce the provisions of the ordinance. Under the new ordinance, the full text of which is published below, the power is transferred to the police, who may make arrests for violations. The principal new features are that merchandise cannot be displayed on sidewalks, and that teams are not permitted to stand on cross walks.

Section 1. No portion of any building hereafter to be erected, altered or repaired, shall be allowed to project over or into any street or sidewalk, provided, that this section shall not apply to the bases of mills or columns projecting not to exceed six inches, or to cornices or projections placed at least ten feet above the top of the sidewalk.

Sec. 2. Awnings, when desired, shall be not less than ten feet above the top of the sidewalk, and so as to admit of a free passage from the sidewalk into the roadway, and all awnings hereafter erected on all [illegible] streets east of Fourth, North Fourth and South Fourth streets, shall be self-supporting. And all awnings erected on any street west of the streets above named, if supported by posts, shall be so constructed at the intersection of streets that no upright or supporting post shall stand upon any sidewalk, crosswalk or roadway within the space included between the side lines of the intersecting streets. No awning, shade or balcony shall extend beyond the line of the curb, and all posts used for supporting awnings shall be placed at least six inches inside the outer line of the sidewalk curb.

Sec. 3. No persons owning or occupying any building or premises shall place or cause to be placed, or maintain or suffer upon the street or sidewalk or suspend or cause to be suspended over the same in front of such building or premises, any sign or advertisement, or place any goods, wares or merchandise upon the sidewalk by way of show, advertisement or otherwise, or suspend or cause to be suspended, maintain or suffer over the street beyond the line of the curb in front of said building or premises, any sign, advertisement or flag, except upon holidays, election days and days of public parade.

Sec. 4. No person shall place or cause to be placed on any sidewalk, crosswalk or street, any article or thing whatsoever which shall obstruct such street or sidewalk, except a permission be first granted therefor by the committee on streets and public property, which permit shall be exhibited to any police officer demanding the same. Provided, that this section shall not apply to merchandise while in the actual course of receipt or delivery; and further provided that wood for fuel may be allowed to be piled and remain in the street in such manner as to cause the least obstruction to public travel, not to exceed fifteen hours for each cord thereof, and not to exceed ten days in the aggregate. This section shall not be deemed to affect the deposit of building material under a permit, as provided by ordinance No. 1145, entitled "An ordinance relating to the use of streets for building purposes and the removal of buildings."

Sec. 5. No person shall throw into or deposit, or cause to be thrown into or deposited upon any public street, highway or grounds, or upon any public premises, or anywhere except in such places as may be designated by the chief of police, any lags, metal, broken ware, dirt, rubbish, garbage or filth, and no person shall carry upon any sidewalk, exposed so as to be offensive to pedestrians, any rubbish, garbage or filth.

Sec. 7. No person shall drive, wheel or draw upon any sidewalk any vehicle except hand carriages for children, and no person having the charge or control of any beast of burden or vehicle shall intentionally cause or permit the same, or either of them, to stand upon any street crossing, or so near thereto as to obstruct travel on the same.

Sec. 7. Any person owning or having control of any premises fronting on a public street and below the grade thereof, shall within five days after notice from the chief of police, require him so to do at his own expense, erect a suitable barricade upon the outer line of the sidewalk in front of such premises.

Sec. 8. Any person by whom or under whose immediate direction or by whose immediate authority as principal, or as contractor or employe, any portion of a public street may be made dangerous, shall erect, and, so long as the danger may continue, maintain around the portion of the street or highway so made dangerous, a good and sufficient barrier.

Sec. 9. A violation of any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be deemed a misdemeanor, and upon conviction before the police judge, the offender or offenders shall be punished by a fine of no less than five nor more than fifty dollars, or by imprisonment in the city jail not less than two nor more than twenty days for each and every offence.

Sec. 10. It is hereby made the duty of the chief of police to see that the provisions of this ordinance are strictly enforced.

Sec. 11. That ordinance No. 2366 entitled "an ordinance relating to the obstructions of streets," and all ordinances amendatory thereof be and the same are hereby repealed.

"THE WHITE SLAVE."

Bartley Campbell's latest success, "The White Slave" was presented very acceptably last evening at New Market theater, by the Palmer Dramatic company, to a large audience in parquette, dress circle and gallery. Of the merits of the play but little can be said other than that it caters to the taste of the amusement loving people of the present time and contains varied features from the mirth provoking antics of ignorant negroes to the refined sorrows of the hero and heroine, which please all classes. The first scene reminds one very forcibly of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and the first act closes with the regulation death of and old man, which causes all the trouble that follows.

The scenic effects were more extensive than are usually seen on the boards of New Market and, considering the unfamiliarity of the workings of the stage always incident to a first night, were well handled. There were plenty of steamboats plying up and down the river and they might have been much worse representations. The scene of the floating wreck all ablaze was excellent and elicited great applause.

The acting of the company was smooth throughout and gave evidence of hard study and careful rehearsals. Grismer, always a favorite, received the applause of the audience upon his entrance and his every scene gave him fresh plaudits. Miss Davies, as "The White Slave," and Miss Bert as the octoroon mistress of a cruel master, sustained their parts with their usual grace and power. The reputation gained by them in this city in the "Lights o' London" has been well sustained in the present play. There was not a character which in its way, did not deserve a special mention, but space forbids this morning. Miss Belle Douglas, however must not be slighted. The character of "Mrs. Lee," from Virginia, is especially suited to her ability, and her representation was throughout without a blemish. "The White Slave" will be presented every evening this week, with a Saturday matinee.

PUBLICITY GOOD IN ALL THINGS.

PORTLAND March 12.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In discussing the best means of suppressing the low dives in this city, it would be well for the public to keep prominently in view the immense influence of publicity. For of all these low dens, and those who directly or indirectly make money by their existence, it may truly be said that "they love darkness rather than light, because their deeds are evil."

The publication by THE OREGONIAN some time since of the houses licensed to sell liquors, and their locations together with the names of the proprietors and their bondsmen, was calculated to have a most salutary effect.

By all means let the liquor seller furnish bonds, if only that we may know, in the case of houses of bad reputation, who is satisfied to guarantee their good conduct, and whether or not the licensing officer is doing his duty. PUBLICITY.

VICIOUS ASSAULT.

W. E. Newsome, Engineer of the Occident Cuts Ed. Leech, the Second Mate, in the Face with a Knife.

About three o'clock yesterday afternoon an affray occurred on board the O. R. & N. Co.'s river steamer Occident, lying at Ainsworth dock, between W. E. Newsome, the first engineer, and Edward Leech, the mate, in which the former cut the latter in the face with a pocket knife, inflicting a very severe but not a dangerous wound. The affair was the outcome of an ill timed and apparently unnecessary quarrel. The steamer had been at Greenwich dock and took on some wheat for Oregon City. In order to trim the boat properly two rows of sacks were piled astern, parallel with and about one foot away from the engines. It was understood that the wheat would be moved to the center of the boat as soon as some lumber was discharged. After the boat landed at Ainsworth dock Newsome and Leech met, and the former inquired of Leech when he expected to move the wheat away from the engines. Leech responded sharply, "I'll move it whenever I d—d please, and you needn't bother yourself about it." Other sharp words followed and the men came to blows. Each struck at the other several times, but all the blows seemed to have been warded off. The men by this time were in front of the boiler, when, according to the statement of two eye witnesses Newsome drew from his hip pocket an ordinary pocket knife and opened the largest blade, about two and a half inches long. These witnesses, one a deck hand of the steamer and the other a 'longshoreman who happened to be aboard, told an OREGONIAN reporter the following story of the remainder of the affray:

As soon as Newsome drew the knife, Leech backed toward the end of the boiler, the assailant pressing him close all the way and slashing at him five or six times. One blow cut Leech's coat sleeve, and another the side of his coat. He finally backed against a pile of wood at the boiler, when he struck Newsome on the head with his fist. At this, Newsome made a lunge at him, striking him in the face with the knife, and cutting a circular gash from the middle of the left ear to the mouth. The lower part of the ear was severed. Leech then started forward, blood spurting from the wound, and having reached the bow, said "Boys the — — got me. Get me something to stop this blood."

The above is their story. Newsome walked immediately to the office of John Gates, chief engineer of the river division, corner of Front and D, and told Mr. Gates what he had done. He said that Leech without provocation struck him twice and he used his knife in self-defense. Mr. Gates advised him to surrender himself and walked with him back to Ainsworth dock, where he was surrendered to special officer Martin who took him to the city jail.

Dr. I. E. Cohn, the company's surgeon was summoned to Leech and with the assistance of Dr. Saylor dressed the wounds. Had the knife entered a quarter of an inch higher, the wound would have been fatal. Leech was taken to St. Vincent's hospital where he is resting easy.

After the affray, speaking to the deck hands, Leech said that he thought Newsome had a revolver and he was trying to knock it out of his hand. If he had known the weapon was a knife he would have run out of his assailant's reach. Late in the afternoon, Newsome was released, John Gates and A. G. Walling, Newsome's father-in-law, becoming sureties for his appearance at the police court for arraignment this afternoon.

SCHOOL ELECTION.

Messrs. Wilson, Wasserman and Versteeg Elected Directors, and William Church, Jr., Clerk.

The school election passed off quietly yesterday afternoon. On account of the election of three directors under the new law, more interest was manifested than ever before at a similar election. This was particularly noticeable in the First ward. Watson's addition, which was formerly a district of itself, presented its claims to recognition on the board of directors by offering Mr. Versteeg as a candidate. They urged and worked hard for his election, on the ground that with three directors to elect this would probably be the only opportunity that they would ever have for years to secure a member from their district. The vote was 1021, an increase of 328 over the vote of last year. The customary number of ladies cast ballots. Following is PREPARING TO CELEBRATE.

The committee of the Grand Army of the Republic appointed to arrange for a grand reunion of the members of that organization, to be held at Portland on the 3d, 4th and 5th of July next, met last evening. The committees consist of:

Department Staff—Department Commander, C. E. Caukin; Assistant Adjutant General, Z. T. Wright; Assistant Quartermaster General, T. G. Davidson.

George Wright Post, No. 2—Comrades A. E. Borthwick, N. S. Pierce, George C. Sears, O. Summers, R. H. Schwab, C. O. Staples and D. P. Thompson.

Garfield Post, No. 3—Comrades F. K. Arnold, Wm. Kapus and F. H. Lamb.

Lincoln Post, No. 4—Comrades A. Paffenbarger, H. Stitzel and W. A. Bantz.

The committee organized by the election of Department Commander C. E. Caukin chairman; F. H. Lamb of Garfield Post, secretary; A. E. Borthwick of George Wright Post, corresponding secretary. Committee on Finance—D. P. Thompson, William Kapus, F. K. Arnold, George C. Sears and T. G. Davidson. Committees upon programme, transportation, camping ground and camp equipage were appointed, and the committee adjourned to meet on April 2d.

At this early stage of the proceedings no detailed can be given of the order of exercises to be observed at the reunion. It is contemplated, however, that the programme to be formulated shall be such that it can serve as a nucleus for a grand celebration of our national anniversary, in which the military and civic societies and citizens generally can unite. Posts of the Grand Army of the Republic throughout the state and Washington territory will be present in force, and the largest gathering of the defenders of the Union ever held in this state is confidently expected.

EXEMPT FIREMEN'S ASSOCIATION.

PORTLAND March 12, 1883.

At the last regular meeting of the Exempt Association the undersigned was directed to call the attention of the exempt members of the late P. F. D. to the fact that they are eligible to membership in this association, those who hold certificates for two and one-half years being equally eligible with those who served seven years. The Exempt Association has been in existence something over eight years. The different funds now aggregate over four thousand dollars and the expenditures made have been of great benefit to many members of the fire department in time of need. It is hoped that all firemen eligible to membership will join the association. Application may be made through any member. Regular meetings are held quarterly, in December, March, June and November. Entrance fee is five dollars and dues one dollar per quarter, and members in needy circumstances are entitled to relief, which is ordered from the funds of the association by the board of trustees and upon application. T. H. TREVETT, President.

PORTLAND BOARD OF TRADE.

Regular Monthly Meeting held at Rooms last Evening.

The meeting was called to order by President Mackey, Secretary Arnold in attendance. Minutes of last regular and special meetings read and approved.

The secretary read a dispatch from the board of trade at Boise City inquiring if the transportation companies could make any reduction in freight rates from Portland. After consultation with railway officials secretary Arnold wired that no reductions could be made, at least for the present.

The committee appointed to visit the city dredger reported they had visited the dredger on the 10th inst. but found the master away and that one part of the bucket gear had broken at noon the day previous. The weight of machinery had caused one end of the dredger to recede, it being below original lines, but no serious damage was expected to result. The dredger was well kept as regards both order and cleanliness. Seven scow loads was the best day's work.

The statistical committee reported in favor of paying the Merchants' Exchange the sum of $30 per month for files and the report was adopted. This move occasioned considerable discussion as to whether the board would be justified in paying present salary to the assistant secretary as the furnishing of statistics very materially lightened his labor. The matter was deferred to adjourned meeting.

[illegible] reported providing seed wheat [illegible] pure [illegible] in [illegible] which would supply all demands. Orders for seed wheat gave almost certain and the incoming supply would doubtless bring the last consignment.

Secretary Arnold reported that the Sailing Directions were in hand of the printer.

On motion, the board adjourned.

SALEM NOTES.

[FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.]

SALEM, March 12.

The assessment rolls for 1883 are now in the hands of the printer and will soon be ready for distribution.

C. W. Vail, a well known bookbinder of your city, is here assisting in the execution of the state work.

E. W. Starr will at once commence the erection of a new residence on Piety hill, east of that of Hon. R. P. Earhart.

W. N. Ladue, manager of the new national bank in this city, anticipates the opening of the same about the 15th of April.

The blind school will open on or about the 15th of April arrangements being effected with that end in view at the present time.

Gov. Moody has appointed J. P. Gason, W. G. Jenne and G. G. Ames, of Portland, and John C. Booth and C. A. Sehlbrede, of Salem, notaries public for the ensuing two years.

Miss A. R. [illegible] rendition of Bob Burdette's great lecture on "The Rise and Fall of the Mustache" at the Presbyterian church to-morrow evening promises to draw a good house.

Wilbur F. Cornell contemplates the immediate erection of three new tenement houses on some lots recently purchased by him in south Salem near the former residence of Geo. H. Jones.

Prof. Z. M. Parvin, of San Jose, California, will come to Oregon in a few days to take charge of the conservatory of music in Willamette University. He has the reputation of being a very fine vocalist as well as instrumental teacher. His official position in the university will be director of the conservatory and professor of voice, harmony, piano and pipe organ. He will have two assistants Miss Frankie Jones and Miss Constance Jordan. In the interim since Prof. Stabler's resignation, which occurred more than a month ago, two his staff teachers have been carrying a part of the work of the conservatory. The university has an unusually large attendance this term, and is closing up one of the very best year's work in its history.

MAILS FOR BAKER.

BAKER CITY, March 6.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Is there such an office as U. S. special postal agent? If so, who discharges the functions of that office? To illustrate, THE OREGONIAN of the 3d of February, 1883, arrived here on the 13th of February. Several times since we have received papers three days ahead of their regular numerical order. To-day we got the OREGONIAN of March 3d, while those of the 1st and 2d may have "gone where the woodbine twineth" for ought we know. The stage coaches come here on reasonable regular time, and we doubt not would carry the papers if given to them. This state of affairs has existed long enough. It is simply outrageous. SUBSCRIBER.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES

NEW YORK, March 12.—Ah L[illegible] Chinese proprietor of an opium den [illegible] street and Edward Lewis who was smoking there when Capt. Williams [illegible] cropped in, were arrested. They will be tried this morning [illegible] special session. [illegible] history of the [illegible] New York [illegible] first case of arrest [illegible] May 10, 1882, which provides a penalty of a fine not exceeding $500 [illegible] penitentiary not exceeding two [illegible] Capt. Williams said yesterday [illegible] his place on Twenty-sixth street [illegible] far I know of it, but it was not my fault [illegible] did not get more people because [illegible] thing away and they were [illegible] I received a note from a [illegible] grocery there complaining [illegible] whom he had rented [illegible] supposing that they were all [illegible] place in Thirty-second street [illegible] proprietor of the Cremorne Garden, which was described last winter, I simply walked in and gave the people twenty-four [illegible] to get away. There was not any opium law then, but if there is any one thing I [illegible] down on, it is the vice of opium smoking. People don't know what it is.

Active Work to Begin at Panama.

NEW YORK, March 12.—The Tribune has the following: The American Dredging and Contract company is about to begin operations on the Panama canal. The company was originally started by Slaven Bros., of San Francisco, who associated with them Wm. T. Coleman, James Phelan, Lloyd Tevis and other Californians. Slaven Bros. came here with letters from Phelan and others to the Export Lumber company, and by the heads of this company were introduced to Wm. R. Grace & Co., who took a small amount of stock. The New York agent of the Bank of California was made the trustee of the funds received for stock.

There was constructed for the company the largest dredging machine in existence. The vessel to carry it was made in Philadelphia. The German steamer Claudians has been chartered to tow the vessel containing the dredger to Panama, and will start March 19th. The "Hercules" dredger is constructed on the same plan as the one now in use in the San Joaquin valley, in California. Lieutenant Commander Gorringe and other experts have examined the machine and speak highly of it. The company is building another dredger, the exact counterpart of the first, and is to have a third one built. Each one cost $125,000. The dredger works equally well in hard or soft dirt. The company will receive about thirty cents per cubic yard of dirt removed, and has a contract to dredge several miles at a cost of $3,000,000. Payments are to be made monthly. Subscriptions to stock of the company have been in amounts not exceeding $50,000 and some less.

Pacific Coast Postal Changes.

T., W. H. Stuart; [illegible], Pima county, Ari., J. W. Turner.

The Printers Organize.

NEW YORK, March 12.—There was a large gathering of union and non-union printers yesterday afternoon. The subject of discussion was the irregular rates of wages paid to day compositors. It was decided that all union and non-union men employed in offices [illegible] less than 35 cents per thousand ems [illegible] should make a demand to-day for 45 cents. Compositors were advised to quit work where the demand is not complied with, and were promised the assistance of the union until its next monthly meeting, when the matter will receive further consideration. President [illegible] spoke in behalf of organization. He said there were between 5000 and 6000 printers in New York, only 1200 of whom belonged to the union.

[illegible] Excursion to the Pacific Coast.

NEW YORK, March 12.—One of the most delightful excursions ever organized has just been [illegible]. The growing popularity of a trip [illegible] and a desire to visit the attractive [illegible] California have prompted a firm [illegible] this excursion. It consists of a spring trip to San Francisco, via New Orleans, [illegible] Mexico, New Mexico and Southern [illegible]. Excursionists will have the privilege of [illegible] singly to New Orleans, from [illegible] the great excursion will start about [illegible].

[illegible] Native Americans in New York.

NEW YORK, March 12.—Some fifteen relatives of "poor Indian" are now in this city, [illegible] domiciled at the Globe museum. [illegible] undoubtedly the finest representatives of the "noble red man" ever placed on exhibition in this city. Chief "Mahican," who [illegible] at the Custer massacre, and Custer [illegible] by the hands of Sitting Bull himself [illegible] the "long haired chief" [illegible] one of respect for his bravery [illegible] than he had visited Washington [illegible] his great father.

Congratulations and Thanks.

[illegible] March 12.—The Central Trades and [illegible] passed resolutions denouncing [illegible] Anthony Plumb [illegible] the Columbia Typographical [illegible] of Washington, and thanking Senator [illegible] Oregon for their efforts in behalf of organized labor.

[illegible] Another Funeral.

NEW YORK, March 12.—A crank went into [illegible] hall and [illegible] yesterday afternoon [illegible] an indiscriminate shooting with a revolver. He hurt nobody but escaped on the elevated railroad. He was in mourning and [illegible] been to one of the famous funerals yesterday.

The Great Socialist in New Jersey.

NEW YORK, March 12.—Herr Most yesterday afternoon addressed a large meeting in Jersey City heights on socialistic affairs. He spoke in German. Other addresses were made by Victor [illegible] and James DuHott, the latter speaking in English. The speakers were enthusiastically received.

Fun for the Czar.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 12.—It is stated that the police are warned from Paris because of a plot to murder the czar. A lady arrested at Charkov and a boy was found on her to a cipher, the documents for which had been previously seized.

Flood at Quebec.

QUEBEC, March 12.—High water to-day in St. Louis and St. Charles rivers. Wharves and Champlain market places are flooded as well as [illegible] St. Roches, near St. Charles river and in the village on the opposite side.

To Assist Parnell.

LONDON, March 12.—A committee is being formed for the purpose of freeing Parnell's estates.

"Daniel Webster is not loquacious," wrote Carlyle to Emerson in 1839, "but he is pertinent, conclusive, a dignified, perfectly-bred man. As a logic-fencer, advocate or parliamentary Hercules, one would incline to back him at first sight against all the extant world."

There's now room for the prompt organization of the Veteran Boss association to be composed of ex-bosses. They are plenty and, as a rule, out of employment. They should meet once a month to regale themselves on fond memories and happier days.

The exportation of dried apples—most of them "evaporated"—from this country was over 3,500,000 pounds last year. It is stated that a large part of this went to swell the population of the already over-crowded Celestial empire.

The Boston Post has the curious statement: "The death penalty was abolished in Maine by a legislature a majority of whose members were Universalists and Unitarians. There is some chance for its restoration by [illegible] legislature in which the Universalists and Unitarians are in a minority."

"No girl," says a female correspondent of a Chicago paper, "ought to ever think of marrying until she possesses the proper qualifications to make a good wife. [illegible] should even think of having a beau until she can run a sewing machine with [illegible] and rock the cradle with the other."

Miss Jennie Flood is the wealthiest young lady on the Pacific Coast. [illegible] $2,500,000. Young men [illegible] on the strength of [illegible] be "homely and sensible" [illegible] ing back will prove long and [illegible].

The cotton crop this year will [illegible] 000 bales. This means prosperity for the south. The European floods will [illegible] the price of northern grain and that [illegible] prosperity for the north. The disasters in the [illegible] trade will not offset nor even appreciably affect the general situation.

THE MALHEUR COUNTRY.

Where It Is, What It Is, and What It May Be.

A GOOD PLACE FOR STOCKMEN.

History and Reminiscences—The Indian Reservation—"Mrs. Grant" [illegible] Gossip and Facts.

[illegible] eastern [illegible] partly in Baker [illegible] the [illegible] Harney [illegible] Malheur [illegible] Mr. [illegible] Malheur [illegible] Parrish [illegible] agent [illegible] country.

[illegible]

And with a young Indian [illegible] Camp Harney [illegible] Indians [illegible] Considering that these Indians were still maintaining a more or less hostile attitude [illegible] mission was a rather risky one. But he rode right into their camps, and the [illegible] which has always made him deservedly popular with the red man carried him through successfully. He collected the different bands, in all numbering about 800 Snakes, and soon had them at camp around the spot he had selected for an agency. This was in a deep basin immediately under

MALHEUR PEAK,

Or as it is sometimes called Horse [illegible], a bold butte towering high above its neighbors and capped by a rocky knob resembling a horse's hoof. In this basin, through which flows one fork of the Malheur river, Mr. Parrish erected about a dozen very substantial frame buildings, using a portable sawmill to [illegible] close at hand. He induced his Indians to go to work and soon they had an extensive farm fenced and under cultivation. About four miles of irrigating ditch was dug by them, Mr. Parrish and two chiefs having to do their personal part of the digging in order to get the [illegible] warriors to follow suit.

CROPS WERE RAISED

Consisting of wheat and oats and the hardier varieties of vegetables. The agent also succeeded in raising some melons and small garden truck, but he found it necessary to set the plants under his kitchen stove during the frequent frosty nights. As a general thing the Indians prospered, although they would insist on burning up their fences as fuel in winter and replacing them in spring. In 1876 Mr. Parrish was removed to make a place for another agent. This was a sad blow to the Indians, who did not understand, and they wept long and loud and tried by force to prevent the departure of the agent they had learned to trust. But he begged them to resign themselves to circumstances, which for awhile they doggedly did. But they could not get along with their new agent, saying he was not Sam Parrish. For two years they nursed the hope that the latter would come back to them. Then the Bannack brave Buffalo Horn with his band [illegible] swept down the Snake river and up the Malheur to the fishing camp of Oits and Egan's people. There was

A YELL FOR WAR.

The Bannocks cried: "Why do you sit here and starve on fish bones while there are herds of cattle and horses on the white man's range just beyond?" The smouldering spark was fanned into a flame, and instantly every man, woman and child of the Malheur reservation was out on the warpath. Egan, the war chief—a brave man, with many a scar from the white man's bullet upon his body—talked against war and warned his people against the final result, but was overruled. When he had to fight he fought to the death. His skull occupies a shelf in the Army and Navy museum at Washington. His bones have been scattered by the coyotes among the tall timber near [illegible] station in the Blue mountains, where he died fighting like the brave man he was. The loss of Buffalo Horn and Egan, their two bravest men, took the backbone out of the hostiles in '78, and rapidly they retreated. The Idaho Bannocks made their escape back toward the Ross Fork agency, while the Malheur Indians secreted themselves in the timber near their old agency and finally surrendered to the soldiers. They were taken to Camp Harney, and in January, 1879, sent to Yakima reservation, where they still remain. Since then there have been

NO INDIANS ON THE MALHEUR.

Although the agency and reservation were continued as such until a few months ago. Excepting a small reserved portion, the reservation is now open to settlers. Perhaps because the Umatilla and some other reservations contain considerable choice land, the idea prevails that the Malheur reservation is an excellent agricultural region. This is a mistake. Very fair crops of grain have been raised in the agency basin, which is several hundred feet lower than the surrounding country, but even here the wheat has at times been frozen while in the milk. In 1878 the crops were very good, and when Gen. Howard's command reached there in August of that year they found plenty of grain for their thousand head of hungry horses and mules. This basin is well watered and is a pretty spot to look down upon from the surrounding heights. But its area is limited, and there is not enough of it to make a dozen decent sized ranches. Further down the stream which flows through it there is some good bottom land, but hardly room to get in a row. Between the agency and

CAMP HARNEY

You pass over something like sixty miles of country which will strike you as not particularly good to raise anything, although the Snake Indians considered it a very good country in which to raise crickets, which they roasted and mashed into bread resembling oatmeal. These crickets are about as large as humming birds, and if you travel through there in the spring it will for miles be impossible for your horse to set his foot down without mashing one. When you camp at night you had better sit on your saddle or they will pack it off bodily. Another crop raised here by the Indians was flint for their arrow-heads. It abounds everywhere. There are also extensive patches of clay, where brick yards might do business if there was anyone to buy the bricks. There are some very good log buildings at Harney, but the place was abandoned as a military post a few years ago. This is

A FINE SUMMER COUNTRY

But too elevated for agriculture. Between Harney and Canyon City, a distance by wagon road of perhaps 65 miles, you pass through Sylvs and [illegible] valleys, both of them well watered, well timbered and pretty places, but too high for farming. About twelve miles from Malheur agency is Otis valley, an extensive body of land where there is some good soil. There is a rank growth of rye-grass, but it looks too coarse for the digestion of anything but a sawmill. Some twenty miles east of the agency is the Clover creek country, where there are a few ranches, and about twenty miles further you find Malheur City and Eldorado, small towns around which placer mining is still carried on. On the [illegible] Malheur and on Bully and Willow creeks there is considerable good agricultural land, and much of it seems to be held by a military road company. In 1878 two of

GENERAL HOWARD'S SCOUTS

Left the Malheur agency and striking the main Malheur river, followed it down to within a few miles of where it empties into the Snake. They found a very rough country with no valley or bottom land for many miles. There is an old Indian trail down the river, in places worn deep into the rocky sides of the canyon, and where the bluffs close in your horse has to swim and wade along the channel of the stream. Along here considerable alkali exists in the water, and if you take a drink of it you will need another one very soon. You don't like it, but if you get started you have to keep on drinking or suffer a torturing thirst. When the trail leads up a bluff you will be actually foolish enough, if you have no canteen, to leave your horse and climb down to get another drink of what you know will in a short time make you still more thirsty. But if you will let the water alone at first and keep a bullet or pebble in your mouth, you will have no trouble with thirst in traveling toward the

MAIN MALHEUR

From the agency you pass over many miles of high arid country, much of which is literally sown with slate rock, the sharp corners of which you will find anything but beneficial to your horse's feet. Approaching the stream you find the bluffs cut up by innumerable canyons, down which you can pass to the water's edge. West of the agency is the main range of the Blue mountains, with plenty of tall timber, grass, game and water—in short, the finest summer country in the world. Some twenty miles from the agency are Crane and Summit prairies, about all they are good for is to start a large ostrich farm. Cranes about as large as small ostriches abound. They make a noise like the [illegible] of a ship's sails, and if properly mixed with the sage [illegible] of the plains below an article of ostrich which would stand the climate might be produced. Most of the Malheur country is Abounding in bunch grass and with plenty of summer range in the timber. [illegible] horses always wintered well on the range [illegible] cattle kept in good condition. The [illegible] in the agency basin rarely exceeded 18 inches. On the Lower Malheur and its tributaries [illegible] at [illegible] Harney [illegible] and Steens mountain [illegible] and Cali[illegible] markets [illegible] Harney valley is an extensive [illegible] elevation here is over 4000 feet [illegible].

SCHOOL ELECTION IN DISTRICT No. [illegible]

The annual school election of District No. [illegible] (which embraces East Portland proper and Stephens addition) occurred in this city yesterday, the polling place being at the engine house on [illegible] the city hall. The officers appointed to conduct the same were judges—J. M. [illegible], Dr. [illegible] McCoy and Thos. Combest; clerks—J. T. Stewart and E. C. Beard. This was the first school election here under the regulation which requires that elections be held at public polling places during the day, when the legal voters of the district number 500 or more, the old system of clerk having reported the number of legal voters at 520. The interest of citizens in school elections was proverbially inanimate as usual, only about one in five of the reported number of voters deeming it worth while to take advantage of their privilege. The general apathy extended also to candidates and their friends, and the result was a walk-over for those in behalf of whom any effort worthy the name had been made. The officers to be elected were a clerk to serve for one year to succeed Miss Ada Thomas and a director for three years to succeed N. K. West. H. C. Myers was the only candidate publicly announced for the office of clerk, but during the day it developed that Geo. P. Perry was also a candidate for this position. No candidate whatever had been announced for the office of director but it finally cropped out there were no less than four: Messrs. T. Turnbull, Dr. O. [illegible], Capt. Buckman and J. B. Mayo. Excepting the case of Mr. Myers, there appeared to be a combined effort to conceal the names of candidates and to keep in fact of the election as quiet as possible, and in view of the honors of two and six o'clock the judges and clerks passed their weary time by receiving and recording the significant or insignificant number of 17 ballots, distributed as follows:

FOR DIRECTOR.

Thomas B. Turnbull
Dr. O. F. [illegible]ttage
Cyrus Buckman
J. B. Mayo

FOR CLERK.

E. C. Myers
Geo. P. Perry

The successful candidates, Messrs. Turnbull and Myers, are men well qualified for the positions to which they have been elected. Mr. Turnbull having previously occupied the position of director, his re-election is satisfactory evidence of his fitness for that office. Ladies were not largely represented. In the above vote only seven exercising their right in this direction, their names being as follows: Mrs. Della Dodd, Mrs. Dr. Charlton, Mrs. J. C. Ross, Mrs. C. A. Coburn, Mrs. N. E. Frush and Mrs. Sue R. Keenan.

CHANGE OF LOCATION

At the solicitation of interested business men W. S. Ladd has consented to build the Presbyterian church on the southwest corner of Sixth and J streets instead of on the lot adjoining on J street as first intended. The foundation already built on the latter site will be used for business purposes.

THE TELEPHONE

A number of the huge cedar poles to be erected for telephone purposes in this city, arrived here yesterday and were distributed along the principal streets. The company has engaged quarters for a central office in the Hawthorne building, corner of [illegible] and Fourth streets, for a term of years, and is evidently making headway as fast as possible for the system to be established here.

NOTES

The board of managers of the East Portland Y. M. C. A. will meet Wednesday evening at 7:30.

Mrs. H. R. Robinson, an old lady residing with a daughter on E and Ninth streets, by an accidental fall Saturday last suffered concussion of the brain. Her condition was at first its [illegible] but the symptoms are now favorable for her recovery.

F. W. Bullock, a son of Justice Bullock, arrived here per the Queen Friday last and is staying at his father's residence in this city. He is traveling for a leading furniture house of Chicago and is visiting Portland combining business with pleasure. He expects to leave in the course of a week. In honor of his visit Mr. Bullock Sr. has ornamented himself with a new silk tile which tops him off in such exquisite advantage as to make it difficult to distinguish father from son—provided you are a long way off.

ARBUTUS

Arbutus thou dost faintly swing
The subtle censer of the spring,
I sip thy wine, I kiss thy lips
I softly touch thy pinky tips
More than I say art thou to me—
A past and still a joy to be!
If e'er I stand of all bereft
As they do stand whom Death has left
A treasure dearer far than gold
Mine empty hand will seek and hold—
The first arbutus of the spring,
A simple thing, a little thing,
Yet incense-bearer of the king
His tidings glad borne on its wing
All my lost life twill backward bring
And all the life before twill touch
With spring's young glory. 'Twill be much—
How much! Yet such a little thing,
The first arbutus of the spring.

—Mary Clemmer

Reed's Retort on Springer.

Congressman Reed of Maine made a neat retort on our Bill Springer the other day. Bill has been constantly on his feet while the tariff bill has been under discussion, and has been recognized by the speaker about 300 times in a week. In reply to the very unusual request of one of his colleagues to sit down Bill declined and said he would rather be right than be president. "You will never be either," quickly retorted Reed, and the house roared.—Chicago Inter-Ocean [illegible] Journal.
